Descriptors-*Agricultural Laborers, *Bibliographies, Booklists, Conference Reports, Doctoral Theses, Farm Labor, *Farm Management, Government Publications, Mexican Americans, Migrant Employment, *Migrant Workers, Periodicals, Reference Materials, *Rural Economics, Rural Farm Residents, Wages

Over 1,000 bibliographies, books, dissertations, proceedings, bulletins, unpublished materials, United States Government documents, and periodicals are listed. In general material from only the last 5 years is included, unless specific literature pertaining to a particular topic was deemed important enough to be utilized. Though emphasis is on agricultural labor, many publications on migrant labor, wages and employment, agriculture and small business, and farm economics are included. Some of the materials are available from the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology, Texas A & M University. Categorical designations are placed after citations to serve as rough guides to facilitate the location of material. The entries are cross-referenced under such categories as foreign, general, government, management, migrant, miscellaneous, mobility, outlook, productivity, seasonal, substitution, supply, unemployment, union, and wages. INTRODUCTION

This bibliography was originally prepared for the Texas Legislative Committee on Wages and Employment for Agriculture and Small Business. The publication represents an effort to compile a list of material relating to agricultural labor.

Staff members at Texas A&M University searched for published information listed in some of the major indexes---i.e. Bibliographic Index, Bibliography of Agriculture, Books in Print, Cumulative Book Index, Dissertation Abstracts, Public Affairs Information Service, Reader's Guide, Social Sciences and Humanities Index, Sociological Abstracts, and the Index of World Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology. Most of the unpublished literature has been obtained by the Texas A&M staff corresponding with individuals in educational and governmental agencies known to be involved in rural manpower.

While every known source was sought to make the bibliography as inclusive as possible, there are bound to be literature sources which have been omitted. Moreover, the published output relating to farm labor will continue to be received. Hence, a periodic supplement will be needed later to keep the bibliography current and to make it more inclusive. In general material from only the last five years was utilized, unless specific literature pertaining to a particular topic was deemed important enough to be included.

An asterisk (*) preceding the bibliographic information indicates that the material is available from the file repository being accumulated at the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology, Texas A&M University.

Categorical designations which follow the bibliographical citation were made after a cursory review of the literature or by examining the titles if the literature was not available. These are designed to serve as rough guides to facilitate the location of material. A modest effort has also been made to establish cross references. Major topics discussed in the literature are represented by capital letters. Where an article deals with more than one topic, secondary categories are designated by lower case letters. No attempt was made to classify bibliography, books, dissertations or proceedings because these often cover a number of topics. The categories established and the short form designations employed in the bibliography are:

FOREIGN (FOR)
GENERAL (GEN)
GOVERNMENT (GOV)
MANAGEMENT (MGT)
MIGRANT (MIG)
MISCELLANEOUS (MISC)
MOBILITY (MOB)
OUTLOOK (OUT)
PRODUCTIVITY (PROD)
SEASONAL (SEA)
SUBSTITUTION (SUBS)
SUPPLY (SUP)
UNEMPLOYMENT (UNEMP)
UNION (UNION)
WAGES (WAGES)
